About Traveling Nine to Fiver

Traveling Nine to Fiver launched in January 2015. A fast growing U.S. based blog, targeting full-time young professionals looking to travel and explore.

Traveling Nine to Fiver has become a go-to resource for the traveling young professional and focuses on high-quality travel at affordable prices, travel tips, and getting the most out of a destination, especially food and wine.

About Megan

The person behind the blog is Megan MacNee. With ten years of content creation under her belt for politicians, trade associations, and public relation firms, Megan decided to focus her time and skills on writing and sharing her passion: Travel.

She caught the wanderlust bug while spending a semester abroad in Italy. After working in the professional world ten years, she decided to launch Traveling Nine to Fiver to encourage other full-time professionals to live a life filled with travel and exploration. Megan lives in Northern California and travels throughout the United States and internationally.
